16. Vaikom Mohammed Basheer was born as the eldest child of his parents in the village of Thalayolaparambu in northern Travancore. His father was a timber contractor, but the business did not flourish sufficiently for his large family to live in anything approaching luxury. After beginning his education at the local Malayalam school, he was sent to the English school in Vaikom, five miles away. While at school he fell under the spell of Gandhi, whom he saw at the Vaikom Satyagraha, and he resolved to join the fight for an independent India, leaving school to do so while he was in the fifth form. Part of his purpose in joining the Congress was to help ensure that there was some Muslim representation in the pan-Indian movement. Later he went to Kozhikode to take part in the Salt Satyagraha and was arrested; he served a period in prison. Freed from jail he organised a terrorist movement and edited a revolutionary journal, Ujjivanam ('Uprising'). A warrant was issued for his arrest and he left Kerala, returning only seven years later, when he was arrested again and condemned to a spell of rigorous imprisonment. Once India achieved control of its destiny, he showed no further interest in politics. Nor does he appear to have carried any resentment for the harsh treatment he suffered before his country became free. During his absence from Kerala he travelled over many parts of India, taking whatever work seemed likely to keep him from starvation. His jobs included those of loom fitter, fortune teller, cook, paper seller, fruit seller, sports goods agent, accountant, watchman, cowman and hotel manager.

VII COMPREHENSION(5x1=5)

Les Français regardent la télévision en moyenne 3h 21 par jour. Tous les Français reçoivent chez eux six grandes chaînes de télévision publiques et privées. Certaines chaînes privées sont gratuites, comme TF1 et M6. Et d'autres sont payantes. Canal + (la chaîne du sport et du cinéma), par exemple, diffuse une partie de ses programmes << en clair >> (tout le monde peut les voir), et une autre partie de ses programmes est cryptée (seules les personnes qui payent un abonnement peuvent les voir). Les chaînes publiques sont financées en partie par les Français qui ont un poste de télévision. Ils payent une taxe qui s'appelle <<< la redevance >> et qui représente 76% des ressources de la télévision publique. Ces chaînes publiques étaient également financées par la publicité. Mais elles n'en diffusent plus après 20h, depuis janvier 2009. Chaque chaîne du service public a une mission un peu différente. France 3, est une chaîne qui diffuse des programmes nationaux mais aussi locaux et régionaux (il y a par exemple six éditions en langue régionale : alsacien, provençal, etc.) et France 5, elle, est une chaîne à vocation éducative et de découverte. Arte, enfin, est une chaîne franco-allemande à vocation culturelle européenne.

Les questions :

1. Combien d'heures par jour les Français passent-ils devant la télé ?
2. Que signifie << crypté (e) >> ?
3. Citez une chaîne de télévision payante.
4. Quelle est la particularité de certains journaux sur France 3 ?
5. Quelles chaînes n'ont plus le droit de diffuser de la publicité après 20h ?
